Skinny Girls Don't Have OOMPH!

It takes those extra lbs. of solid flesh to "bring out" your natural curves

If you're otherwise healthy but skinny, scrawny, rundown and lbs. underweight, try correcting this common mistake in eating.

THERE are three essential substances that many thin, scrawny and undernourished girls may fail to get in sufficient quantity from the food they eat. These substances are Vitamin B_1, calcium phosphate and iron. If, like thousands of others, you are underweight without organic cause . . . never seem to gain a pound . . . are so thin that you look gangling and gawky from insufficient amounts of these precious elements, don't get discouraged.

You may find that by correcting this simple mistake in eating you can easily add firm solid flesh . . . extra alluring pounds that help bring out those natural eye-catching curves. A simple and easy way is to try the amazing, new product called Numal that supplies, in significant amounts, the Vitamin B_1, calcium phosphate and iron needed in the daily diet. Plus a food that in itself is a great help in adding extra pounds.

Take 1 heaping teaspoonful of Numal 3 times a day. It is pleasant, assimilable and easy to take. You will get the equivalent in Vitamin B_1 content of 34 cakes of average moist baker's yeast . . . the iron equivalent of 15 pounds of tomatoes or 1⅔ pounds of spinach or 9 pounds of boiled beets...and the calcium equivalent of ⅘ths pint of fresh cow's milk, the phosphorus content of 1 glass.

Remember, if you don't get a sufficient quantity of Vitamin B_1 in your daily diet, you may suffer loss of appetite. And without sufficient iron, the element that helps build rich red blood, you may be rundown, pale, weak and listless. You need calcium phosphate for sound teeth and sturdy bones.

SKINNY MEN ARE NOT ATTRACTIVE EITHER

. . . a skinny, scrawny body is no asset in social or business life. Give NUMAL a chance to build you up, put firm flesh on you.

Numal Must Please You or No Cost

So if you are skinny, gangling and beset from lack of these precious nutrients, don't wait any longer. Get Numal today. You will want those extra pounds that "bring out" your natural eye-catching curves. Take Numal faithfully for a week, but if you can't actually feel the difference . . . gain weight and better color. If after this short period you honestly don't feel Numal has benefited you, just return the bottle for a complete refund of your money. Numal costs but a few cents a day to use.

If loss of weight persists see your doctor

GENTLEMEN PREFER REDHEADS

FREDDIE NELSON and Kicker Lawson threw their books on the lawn surrounding Crestview High, settled down beneath the big oak, and prepared to give the new crop of freshman girls the benefit of their undivided attention.

"Now take that one over there with the blond pig tails," Kicker began casually. "She has possibilities. Give her two years and the proper education, and she'd be a cool cookie. I like that wide-eyed innocent expression." Kicker pulled a blade of fresh green grass and began to nibble at it gently. It enabled him to concentrate on the next object of his appraisal. His roving eye caught a flash of Scotch plaid in the distance and he maintained a steady surveillance until the five foot five of red-headed feminine pulchritude came close enough for inspection.

"Wow!" Freddie muttered and sat straight up. "Brother, that's for me."

"Not so fast, Romeo. I saw her first, remember? Well, g'. bye, old sock. See ya around, sometime," Kicker flung back over his shoulder as he shuffled quickly to his feet. He took several long strides and caught up with the flaming red horse's tail that swished back and forth with every step of Anne McPherson's well-shaped legs.

"Is this young man annoying you?" Freddie said from the other side of the quarry.

Kicker looked over his ex-pal with a grimace, but Freddie seemed oblivious to everything except the freckles sprinkled across a pert, ivory-skinned nose.

"I guess he isn't," Anne replied. "He hasn't said anything yet."

"That's because he isn't very bright and it takes him a long time to speak," Freddie said with satisfaction.

"Why you big . . ." Kicker stopped short. It wouldn't do to make a bad impression by letting Freddie get the upper hand. "How about introducing ourselves before we get into a discussion about personalities," he finished neatly. Then he smiled his most fetching smile at Anne. "My name's Kicker Lawson," he beamed.

"My name's Anne McPherson," the gorgeous red-head said softly with just the faintest trace of a Scotch brogue.

"Gee, you've got an accent," Freddie said with surprise and admiration. "Oh, yeah, my name's Freddie. How come?"

"How come what?" Anne murmured.

"How come you've got an accent?" Freddie pressed.

"Because I come from Edinburgh, Scotland," Anne replied. "I am going to go to school here, and perhaps someday I'll become an American."

"I knew there was something different about you the minute I saw you. I just knew it," Kicker beamed again.

"Sure, she's the most beautiful girl to hit Crestview in the last hundred years," Freddie inserted.

Anne blushed and looked from one to the other. She thought she was going to like American boys very much.

The next afternoon, Kicker saw almost all the girls in the junior class gathered on the steps. They were bunched together in groups of twos and threes, most of them looking mad enough to start a war dance.

"Oh, oh, wonder who's going to fry?" Kicker mumbled to his ever-present side-kick.

"I dunno," Freddie returned, "but I think I'll turn around and walk the other way."

Their escape was nipped in the bud when Evelyn Cummings, editor of the Crestview Bugle, glanced up and saw Kicker.

"Hey, Kicker, come here a minute, will you?" she called. And when Evelyn Cummings made a request, even the Queen of England would think twice before refusing.

Kicker looked askance at Freddie, grabbed him by the arm, and the two of them marched before the Kangaroo Court.

"Sure, Evie. What's on your massive brain?" Kicker said nonchalantly.

"Who's the freshman redhead?" she inquired bluntly.

"Y-you mean the girl with the—"

"That's who we mean," Evelyn interrupted.

"S-she's just a kid. Her name's Anne McPherson. Scotch."

"So I gathered, and she's some kid. Do you know that every senior male worth calling a male, and a few of the juniors are following her around like a bodyguard? And do you know that not one of us was asked to go out last Saturday night? And do you know why?"

"Anne?" Kicker mumbled weakly.

"You're so right. It seems that the blond in line of male preference is on the way out," Evie concluded.

"And so are the brunettes," two raven-haired girls wailed in unison.

"I'd like to take that red horse's tail and choke her with it," Mitzie Frost grumbled. "Jimmy hasn't looked at another girl for two years, until now. What's she got, anyway?"

"Beautiful red hair," Freddie answered meekly.

"That's it. Of course, that's it!" Evelyn exclaimed, with a smile of sudden revelation playing across her lips. "Freddie Nelson, you've saved the day," she said, slapping him lightly on the shoulder. "C'mon, we've got work to do," the formidable Evie announced to her following, and whispered something in Mitzie's ear.

Mr. Barnaby conducted an orderly, dull class in Modern European History. That is, it was orderly until he glanced up from his papers and saw all of his female students with glowing red tresses. At first, he thought his eyes were playing tricks on him, so he removed his glasses, cleaned them slowly and carefully, and put them on again. He knew he hadn't had an optical illusion when a loud "Yipe!" greeted his ears from the doorway. The first of the Crestview male contingent had entered.

It was as though an explosion suddenly burst in poor Barnaby's ears as loud exclamations and guffaws blended in a cacophony of sound from the male students.

"Quiet, please, gentlemen," he begged.

The girls looked around at their Saturday night dates indignantly and went on chatting or reading. Only Mitzie was unable to carry it off and blushed a scarlet hue the color of her once dark brown curls.

"They're making fun of us!" she moaned to Evie.

"Now. But they'll either be swooning at our feet or begging us to be our own mousey brunette selves before this day has ended," Evelyn assured her seatmate.

"Class will come to order," Barnaby shouted above the noise. "I was under the impression," he began, clearing his throat, "that, traditionally, men preferred blondes. But I see that history is in a state of constant movement and change. Obviously, today, gentlemen prefer redheads."
